VISA SERVICES

Tourist visa

Tourist visas are refused far more often for a thin or inconsistent file than for a bad reason to travel. We prepare the application the way the consulate reads it: complete, in their order, with nothing left for them to wonder about.

Checked line by line

Every document read against the embassy's own list before submission, not after a refusal.

Appointments booked

Visa centre slots watched and taken when they open, and rebooked if an earlier one appears.

One person on your file

The same name from your first call to your passport coming back.

Honest about the file

If we think an application is weak, we say so before you pay a fee.

What people come to us for

Not a list of countries: these are the situations travellers arrive with. Tell us yours, even if it isn't here.

FIRST TRIP

First time abroad

No travel history yet, so the bank file and covering letter have to carry more weight.

EUROPE

Schengen on one visa

Applied to the country where you spend most nights. Getting that wrong gets a file rejected.

FAMILY

Parents visiting children

A son or daughter in the UK, Ireland, Canada or the Gulf. Sponsor letters in order.

URGENT

Travel dates close

Gulf and Southeast Asia e-visas that can move fast, and appointment slots watched daily.

GROUPS

Families travelling together

Each person, including children, gets their own complete file.

REFUSED

Reapplying after a refusal

We read the refusal letter with you, and fix what can be fixed before reapplying.

197 destinations, every one named on this page. We confirm the current rule for your passport before you pay any fee.

Every destination, by region

The route shown is the usual one for an Indian passport on a tourist trip. Rules change with little notice, so we confirm yours when you apply. An asterisk marks a country where a valid Schengen, UK or US visa can change the requirement.

Schengen Europe 32 countries

One visa, twenty-nine countries, plus Monaco, San Marino and Vatican City which you enter on the same visa. The application goes to the country you spend the most nights in, which is not always the one you land in. Getting that wrong is one of the commonest reasons a file is rejected before it is even read.

The parts that decide how a file reads

Documents we help you prepare

- Passport checked for validity and blank pages against the country's own rule
- Photographs at the exact size and background the consulate specifies
- Bank statements and income proof, in the order the file is read
- Employment or business letters, and written leave approval
- A day-by-day itinerary matched to real flight and hotel bookings
- Invitation and sponsor letters where family is hosting you
- Travel insurance that meets the country's minimum cover
- Previous visas and refusals, declared and explained

Before you apply

- Start early. Appointment availability, not processing time, usually decides when you can travel
- Don't buy non-refundable flights before the visa is granted
- Names must match the passport exactly, on every document and ticket
- Always declare a previous refusal. A hidden one is treated far more seriously than an old one
- Check passport validity. Most countries want it to run well beyond your return date
- Every traveller needs their own file, including children

What actually happens after you message us

No forms to download and no login. You tell a person where you're going, and they do the rest.

1

You send the trip

Where, roughly when, who's travelling. WhatsApp, a call or the form. Exact dates can come later.

2

We send the list

A document list built for that consulate, not copied from a website.

3

We check the file

Forms filled and checked against your passport, line by line.

4

We book and submit

The appointment, biometrics and submission, rebooked if an earlier slot opens.

5

Until it's back

Tracked until the passport is in your hand. Consulate, centre and our fees listed separately.

Why a complete file matters

A consulate officer spends minutes on a file, not hours. If the bank statement doesn't match the itinerary, or the leave letter doesn't match the dates, the easy answer is no, however good your reason for travelling.

We build the file so every document agrees with every other one, and so the officer finds what they're looking for in the order they look for it. And if a visa is refused anyway, we read the letter with you and tell you what can be fixed.

Tell us where you're going. We'll send the document list.

The destination, your dates and who's going is enough to start. Passport details can wait.
